FMC UPDATE: THEATER

The Consortium of Conservatory Theatre Training Programs will again hold their annual regional auditions at Fort Mason Center, February 19 through 21, from 9am to 5pm each day. The Consortium, heir to the League of Professional Theatre Training Programs, is made up of five conservatory training programs with the primary goal of preparing artists for careers in the professional theater. The schools that send their representatives to interview prospective students are Boston University, Carnegie-Mellon University, The North Carolina School of the Arts, State University of New York at Purchase (SUNY), and DePaul University in Chicago. Each school has different criteria, so it is imperative that anyone interested should contact the individual schools for audition time, place and requirements.

The Parable Players begin this month's offerings with The Liberation Lottery and Other Tales, a one-night-only presentation billed as "an evening of fantastic fables and whimsical wisdom from the world's great spiritual traditions." The performance takes place on Saturday, February 6, from 7 to 10pm in Building C. Tickets are $4 for seniors, students, and advance sales, and $6 the night of the show. For more information, call (707) 829-9579.

Magic Theatre continues its outstanding record of bringing works by contemporary playwrights to the public. To start off their 1988 season, Magic presents a bit of the old and a bit of the new. In the Northside Theater, there will be a revival of Happy Days by Nobel and Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright Samuel Beckett. This thought-provoking production is directed by Beckett's foremost interpreter, Stan Gontarski. Next, the newly renovated Southside Theater hosts the world premiere of Pledging My Love, an exciting new work by John Steppling. This play, set around a functional swimming pool, promises to be one of the most exciting and challenging productions of the year. Happy Days will be performed from January 20 through February 28, and Pledging My Love February 24 through April 3. Both plays will run Wednesdays through Saturdays at 8:30pm, and Sundays at 2 and 7:30pm. Tickets are $10-$17, and can be obtained by calling 441-8822.

Due to the success of last year's production of Mother Goose Inc., The Young Performers Theatre has created a sequel entitled Mother Goose Inc. II. In this play, Mother Goose, the casting agent, meets with Jack and Jill, Miss Muffet, and a host of other storybook characters. Like its predecessor, Mother Goose Inc. II will delight young and old alike. It will be performed February 19 through March 13, Saturdays at 1 and 3:30pm, and Sundays at 1pm, with a special opening-night premiere on Friday, February 19, at 7:30pm. Tickets are $6-$4. For more information, call 346-5550.

Life On The Water presents the world premiere of A Song For Manong, the final part of Fred Houn's trilogy (Bamboo That Snaps Back) celebrating the spirit of resistance of Asian/Pacific Americans. The multimedia production takes the audience on a journey from the indigenous cultures of the Philippines through the Spanish colonial era to the labor struggles here in the United States in the thirties, into the dance halls of the community in the fifties, and finally to the valiant battle of the International Hotel in the seventies. The production is a collaboration with a number of artists, including Mr. Houn's Asian American Art Ensemble, noted Filipina scriptwriter Marina Feleo-Gonzales, and award-winning visual artist/designer Santiago Bose. The end result is an exciting fusion of music, dance, contemporary approaches to production and technique, and heartfelt political commitment. A Song For Manong will be presented at Life On The Water Theater February 24 through 27 at 8pm. Tickets are $10-$12. For more information call the box office at 776-8999.

HOT OFF THE PRESS

Two new guidebooks are now available from Fort Mason's Media Alliance. These books are part of the Community Media Project, a program dedicated to helping the under-represented gain access to mass communication outlets.

People Behind the News profiles over 500 local journalists in television, radio, newspapers, wire services/news bureaus and specialized print. The book is based on the simple reality that individuals, with specific interests and styles, report the news. It is an invaluable resource guide for anyone who wants to know who to contact in the field and how to approach them.

A companion resource, the Media How To Notebook, is a primer on free-access publicity. Guided by the conviction that anyone with basic skills can effectively reach the public, this manual teaches the fundamentals of self-promotion, such as how to write a press release or public service announcement, how to get on the air, how to place a feature, and more.

Both People Behind The News, at $10, and the Media How To Notebook, at $5, are available from Media Alliance, a nonprofit organization linking the professional media community to the general public. Call 441-2558 for more information.

RECYCLING

Recycling is an easy and simple way for city-dwellers to participate in environmental conservation. It saves valuable resources and energy, extends the life of landfills, and reduces disposal costs. If these weren't incentives enough, there is now Assembly Bill 2020, California's new bottle bill.

On October 1, 1987, the 11 billion beer and soft drink containers used in California each year became worth one penny each. The bill requires that every beer and soft-drink container sold in the State must be clearly marked to indicate that it is redeemable for one cent (look for the phrase CA Redemption Value on can lids or bottle labels). Manufacturers then pay the penny for each container to the State, which in turn reimburses the redemption centers. These centers must be located within a half-mile radius of supermarkets with over $2 million in annual sales, creating more centers so that recycling will be more convenient than ever. The law also provides for increases in redemption value to 2¢ in 1990 and 3¢ in 1993 for any container material that doesn't meet the 65% recycling State target.

San Francisco Community Recyclers, who operate a redemption center at the south end of Fort Mason's parking lot, urge you to support AB 2020 by recycling your aluminum, glass and plastic beverage containers. In addition, they take other recyclable materials like newspapers, and non-redeemable glass containers such as wine, liquor, and fruit juice bottles.

Even used motor oil can be recycled, at the S.S. Jeremiah O'Brien, docked at Fort Mason's Pier 3.

Hours for the Fort Mason redemption center, appropriately called "Many Happy Returns," are Monday through Saturday from 8am until 1pm, so recyclables can be dropped off on the way to work in the morning or before shopping at the Marina Safeway. For more information, call 282-2479. Motor oil can be dropped off at the O'Brien daily from 9am to 3pm; call 441-3101 for more information.

Thank You!

Pledging My Love Magic Theatre's world premiere of a John Steppling play promises to be one of the most challenging productions of the year. It takes place in L.A. around a swimming pool on the grounds of a wealthy has-been silent-movie actor's home. Robert, the actor's companion, has invited a few friends for a swimming party. Over the course of one night, Steppling creates an unsettling & profound portrait of young lives wasted in the wake of the media age. Unable to relate in reality, they try to connect with each other in TV hyper-reality. Pledging My Love signals the work of a bright new voice able to speak to the paranoia & foreboding of a new "lost" generation. 2/24-4/3 Wed-Sat 8:30pm, Sun 2&7:30pm (previews: 2/17,18,19,20,23) $17-$10 FMC "Friends" $1 off w/mbrs card, Magic Theatre Bldg D 441-8822

Improvisation In African-American Quiltmaking Improvisation, pervasive in Black African art forms, was a vital force behind the quilt-making tradition of the African-American slaves. They used improvisational processes, such as "flexible patterning," which are virtually unknown in the European-American quiltmaking tradition. These techniques have survived through the generations and can be seen in this display of 24 quilts, many of which are the work of local quiltmakers. This exhibition constitutes the first recognition, celebration & explication of these improvisational African-American styles & techniques ever to be presented to the public. 12/31/87-2/28/88
